FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1915.

Most of the municipal and township officers elected Tuesday will assume the duties of office early the coming year.

Next year brings the election of a president and state and county officers. And music will fill the air from early in the year until the balloting in November.

Democratic politicians at Columbus declare that Gov. Willis will soon see his political finish as indicated by the defeat of his pet measures at Tuesday's election.

Six Ohio counties which returned wet majorities last year swung into the dry column Tuesday. They are Clermont, Lake, Miami, Jackson, Seneca and Warren. Two counties, Mahoning and Summit, returned to the wet column.

Under a new law, effective the first of the coming year, no contracts for road building can be let after May. And this is as it should be. For years it has been a practice in many townships to let contracts so late that they could not be completed until winter set in with the result that the roads for months would be next to impassable.

Candidates for county offices to be filled next year are already lining up for the fray. Youngstown is the home of all the aspirants who have so far announced themselves. It has been of little use in recent years for office aspirants in the rural districts to put up their heads and ask for political favors, their city brothers evidently feeling that they alone held claim to all official plums.

GREENFORD

Nov. 4.—The weather Tuesday was ideal for election and there was a good turnout. Much interest was manifested in the selection of trustees. The present board had very difficult problems to solve on account of good roads being built during their term and whether justly or not were subjects of much criticism, the result of which were shown on election day. There were six candidates for trustee, including the present board. George Crutcher was reelected by a large vote, the only one of the old board reelected. Following are the names of officer elected: Trustees, George Crutcher, C. L. Toot, J. B. Calvin, assessor, Geo. S. Bush, clerk, L. E. Coy, treasurer, S. J. Bush; constables, W. S. Clay, Wm. Houts; judge supervisor, John Weaver; justice of the peace, I. W. Coy and A. W. Cocheil; board of education, M. G. Huffman, J. M. Bogner. No nominations had been made for justice of the peace and board of education and blank tickets for those offices were given to voters, resulting in many different names appearing on the ballots. This was the first election in Green township in which the political affiliations of the candidates were ignored.

Mrs. W. I. Hahn, who is confined to her room with pneumonia, is slowly improving.

H. M. Fleming and family moved to the Elias Kreich property.

The L. H. Young Construction Co. has completed the good roads east of the station. With a few more good days the road south to the county line will be finished.

Mrs. Charles Clay, who has been sick the past ten days, is much improved.

L. R. Rhodes is building a barn on his lot.

The tax rate this year in this township is $1.06 per $100 valuation; 40c of that rate being on account of good roads. This seems to some to be a heavy tax, but farmers and others who have marketing to do get large dividends on their investment on account of good road tax. With the same equipment 50 per cent more can be hauled with ease.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church will hold a bazaar and chicken pie supper Saturday evening, Nov. 6, in grange hall. Everybody invited.

Attorney B. O. Schulman of this city, aged 38, was shot through the head by Louis Begala at Struthers Wednesday morning and died in the City hospital late in the afternoon. Begala conducted a meat market and Schulman, in company with deputy sheriff Hopp, had gone to the market to close it on an execution. Driven to desperation by the closing of his business place Begala shot the lawyer as he attempted to leave the market. Deputy Hopp handcuffed Begala and took him to the county jail. Mr. Schulman leaves his wife and two small children.

SALEM

Mrs. Frank Webster, aged 66, died last week Thursday night after an illness of two weeks with bronchitis and heart trouble. Funeral services Monday afternoon were conducted by Rev. W. L. Swan and burial was made in Grandview cemetery.

Lee Saunders alleged that he came home last week Thursday night and found another man in his home. He looked the man in a closet where he was hidden and sent for the police. Friday he commenced suit for divorce against his wife, whose maiden name was Irene Sheets, to whom he was married in Lisbon July 1, 1896. The couple has no children.

W. P. Mellott of this city will receive nothing from the park & Falls Street Railroad Co. for damage to his auto-truck and personal injuries received in a collision with a street car in Youngstown two years ago last June when he was located in Calla and marketed garden truck in Youngstown. The case is a peculiar one, in that the jury which some time since brought in a verdict of $1,050 in favor of Mr. Mellott at the same time expressed its conviction that negligence and carelessness had been displayed by both plaintiff and defendant. Such a finding, it is claimed, nullifies the damage verdict, since the law provides that the plaintiff in such an action cannot be reimbursed for injury or loss if it is found that he is guilty of contributory negligence. Not satisfied with such a disposition of the case, Mr. Mellott sought a new trial, but this has been refused, and the entering of judgment in favor of the company means that the $1,050 damage verdict formerly returned will not stand.

Children playing around a hay stack near Sam Rodo's barn last Saturday are supposed to have started a fire that for a time threatened to destroy the structure.

The time is not far distant when every driver of an automobile will be required to pass an examination showing that he is qualified for the job. Machines are increasing rapidly in number and danger from them increases in the same proportion.

Local nimrods have brought in many rabbits since the season opened Monday.

The strike at the Delmore mine was settled last week and the men returned to work. The trouble grew out of the operators seeking to require a motorman to perform duties that it was claimed were not a part of his work.

Prosperity has returned to many localities and this village should come in for its share of good fortune. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and revive old industries or secure new ones to take their place. With concert of action on the part of our people much can be done to make this one of the best small towns in the state. Let us do it.

Salem Council, K. of C., was instituted last Sunday with a great demonstration. More than 400 members of the order attended the banquet at the Globe auditorium.

Steve Marenkovich and Paul Wongrey got into a wrangle Saturday evening over the European war and resulted in the former striking the latter in the face with a beer glass. The assailant was fined $25 and costs and ordered to pay the victim for time lost as a result of the fray and to pay the doctor bill.

More moisture is needed in this section before winter sets in. The rainfall this season has been below the average.

Mrs. Michael Dunn of this city has asked the courts to grant her a divorce from her husband on the ground of laziness and being of no account. The couple was married 29 years ago and have children ranging in age from 7 to 18 years.

The Perry township trustees will have the road leading from the New Albany to the city macadamized early next spring. When this gap is closed Salem will have an almost continuous good road to Youngstown.

The effort of county officers to stretch their terms into four years was given a knock-out blow at the election Tuesday, and it is well.

Salem's industries are apparently prospering as never before.

A Ford car belonging to J. M. Davidson was driven away from Penn street where it was parked Monday night.

A Washingtonville young man created a disturbance on a street car Monday night and was arrested.

There are 67 more pupils enrolled in the public schools than last year. The mardi gras celebration Monday night attracted a great crowd and everybody apparently had a good time.

Goodwill Encampment of Odd Fellows will hold its annual homecoming celebration next Tuesday night with East Palestine encampment as special guests.

J. M. Woodruff, long a conspicuous figure in the business affairs of this city, died Tuesday night of internal hemorrhages, aged 69. He is survived by one daughter. Funeral services Friday afternoon.

Ohio voted wet by a majority around 50,000, which is a big cut into last year's vote. Next year another effort will be made to vote the state dry.

Albert Bradley is visiting relatives in Ravenna.

CRIMINAL TENDENCIES.

After a careful study of 1000 young criminals and their ancestry Dr. Edith R. Spaulding, resident physician of the Reformatory for women at South Framingham, Mass., and Dr. William Healy, director of the Juvenile Psychopathic Institute, Chicago, have been able to find "only 15 cases which in the least suggest inheritance of criminalistic traits."

"In no case of the thousand," they say, "have we been able to discover evidence of anti-social tendencies in succeeding generations without also finding underlying trouble of a physical or mental nature, or such striking environmental faults or maladjustments as develop delinquency in the absence of defective inheritance."

They say there is much evidence of the indirect inheritance of criminalistic tendencies; that is to say, a child born of criminal parents is almost certain to be brought up in an environment that would tend to make him a criminal even if he had been born of the most moral parents.

It is impossible to say where heredity leaves off and environment begins. "With inherited imbecility, no environment could make a good citizen. On the other hand, if a normal individual were brought up in an environment of vice from infancy, with no moral enlightenment, he, too, would be a poor type of citizen."

They regard habitual drunkenness as an expression of nervous weakness which may be either inherited or acquired. Commenting on one of the cases that seemed suggestive of criminalistic inheritance, they say:

"The boy, however, suddenly waked up in the midst of his atrocious environment, broke up his gang, reformed the worst member of it, and thereby upset our evidence that he had inherited any criminalistic tendencies. This made us skeptical of acceptance of 'proof' in the future."

Drs. Spaulding and Healy note two factors in producing young criminals that sometimes run in families and that are factors of genius as well as of crime. These are superabundant energy and lack of inhibitions. The first, with ideal environment and wise guidance, will make a man a valuable member of society, but with repression and undesirable associates is likely to make a criminal. The second manifests itself in a spirit of abandon and absence of fear that make its subjects seek adventure.

A Cute Yankee.

Our government since its foundation has had periodical rows with Morocco, and the Moors have a wholesome fear of the Yankee nation, which has so many times brought them up with a round turn. The Moors are densely ignorant and prejudiced against all modern inventions, and it is pleasant to record how a cute Yankee circumvented the Sultan and his Prime minister.

This American, whose name is Cobb, wanted to erect a flour mill, and when he applied for authority it was refused. He went right ahead, however, built his mill and put in the machinery, and only needed the grinding stones.

They came at last, and the authorities calmly impounded them at the wharf. Mr. Cobb immediately wrote to the United States consul, and received a formal reply, informing him that since the sultan had forbidden the project, he must not look to the consul for aid.

This letter was all that Cobb needed. He took it to the men who had his grinding stones in charge, and asked them if they could read English.

"No!"

"Then look at this!" cried Cobb. There were the arms of the great American nation, and there was an undoubted official signature. Nobody knew what complications might ensue if this fierce American were disappointed, so the stones were given up and the mill was finished.

When the Sultan came to town, and heard the machinery whirling, he scowled, but now he sends all his corn to that mill to be ground, and Mr. Cobb has cause to chuckle.

How to Use a Life Preserver.

"The worst trouble about a life preserver," said an old sailor, "is that few people know what to do with one when it's thrown to them. Many a man would drown in trying to get a life preserver over his head."

"The average person struggling about in the water would try to lift up the big life ring and put it over his head. That only causes the man to sink deeper and take more water into his lungs."

"The proper way to approach a life preserver in the water is to take hold of the side nearest you and press upon it with all your weight. That causes the other side to fly up in the air and down over your head, 'ringing' you as neatly as a man ringing a cane at a country fair. After that the drowning man can be rescued."

Rabbits on Laysan Island.

Rabbits on Laysan Island, the well-known Hawaiian bird reservation, have multiplied to such an extent since they were introduced a few years ago as to threaten the existence of the island vegetation. As this result would jeopardize the bird colony, which need shade, especially during the nesting season, an expedition which recently visited the island destroyed about 5,000 rabbits, or one-half the total colony.

Locating the Trouble.

When one is suffering from backache, rheumatism, lumbago, biliousness, sharp pains, sore muscles and stiff joints it is not always easy to locate the source of trouble, but nine times out of ten it can be traced to overworked, weakened or diseased kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have benefited thousands of sufferers. F. A. Morris, Canfield, Adv.

Naturally there wouldn't be so much dissatisfaction in the world if other people were only satisfied with what they have.

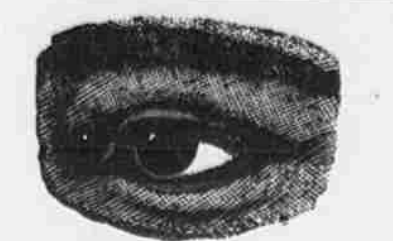

Profit in Business

arises from keeping the expenses of the business below the earnings.

The man who keeps his personal expenses below his personal earnings is as a rule more competent to manage a business than the one whose earnings are all consumed by his expenses. A man should show a profit from his own income before he assumes the management of the income of another.

"AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?"
Virtue, honor, business capacity and business integrity, professional skill are never free from the derogatory influence of what they say. Indiscretions, careless manners, faulty dress, imagined slights and a thousand other incidents so common in daily life are woven into tales which "they say" always introduced by "have you heard?" Whether women are more prone to gossip than men may be questioned. Both are ever inclined, from varying motives and causes, to say and to think the things which reflect credit on their neighbors.—Lexington Herald.
